- Laser Hair Removal

- How laser hair removal work.

- Our laser is attracted by melanin, the dark pigment that gives color to hair. The laser tracks this pigment to the root of each hair and then releases heat energy, disabling the root and the blood supply that assists in regenerating new hair. The laser beam does not harm the surrounding skin as it targets the melanin found in the hair follicles. As these excess hair treatments can only target the hair that is presently in a state of growth, a series of sessions is usually required to guarantee a long lasting final outcome.

- It is important to note that the laser process will be less effective on people that have red, white, grey or blonde hair.
